Every corner and corner of India is filled with a variety of people coming from different backgrounds but all share the feature of exceptional happath and joy. The opportunity gets multiplied every few days as one or the other festival comes knocking at our doors to fill our hearts with vibrant butterfly ready to explode. Among the many festivals, one that the nation is currently celebrating the birth of Ganesha is almighty. The 10-day festival, Vinayaka Chaturthi or Ganesh Chaturthi is celebrated across the country with numerous pumps and shows. In recent years, worship has come up with many innovative ideas celebrating the entire occasion -- the heart. In a bid to make the festival more eco-friendly, worship installed green Ganpati idol in their homes amid other efforts. However, one element that makes the festival even more special is the sweet, delicate moddaks of mouth-water, devouring who to wait for an entire year. Modak MachineNow imagine if you could access them at any time, like an ATM, where you swipe your debit card and remove the cash. Well, a Pune resident named Sanjiv Kulkarni created a modal travelling ATM, which he calls any time modac of vehicles. The ATM was installed in Sahakar's Sahakar Pune on Ganesh Chaturthi. Being a former mechanical engineer, Kulkarni tried to bring culture and technology together with the machine. Like a regular ATM, this innovative seller's vehicle also requires those seeking to modak the slide of a special card and choose a button. Interestingly, each button denoted different emotions and worshiped the prayer of Lord Ganesha. The button 'kshama' (sorry), 'daan' (charity), 'prem' (love), 'shanti' (peace), 'bhakti' (devotion), 'sadacha' (justice) and 'bhavna' (feeling). After choosing one of the given options, devoted may be available 'prasad' as Kulkarni told ANI Wire News. Ever since being installed, the unique machine has become a point of attraction. Festivals as MotivatorIndian festivals have always acted as a motivator for innovative thoughts to put their hidden skills to use. Last year near Diwali, three Indians - Shashi Ranjan, a scientist at the National University of Singapore, Debayan Saha, a post-graduate of IIT Kharagpur, and Harsh Sheth, a doctor manufactured a nasal device. Keeping the number of pollutants entering the atmosphere during the festival season, the three Indians are vigilant creating a device to capture the pollutants and clear the air. There are many more innovative thoughts India has yet to explore and our festivals can supposedly provide them with this opportunity to come forward. ATM are easy targets for flying, as skimmers and other devices make it easy to grab your debit information and use it to take your money. A simple way to reduce the risk of falling victim to these scams is to only use ATM vehicles inside the bank. Here's why. Anonymous Police Officer X (who I met and can confirm is an actual police officer) took note of the frequent causes of trolls and theft of automatic recounting machines. On his blog, he explains why ATM Banks are generally the safest choice when you need to make a transaction: Banks have multiple security cameras near the ATM area and have their cars often maintained. Freestanding atm's are risk uses because thieves could install cameras, skimmers, programs, etc. that will steal your information. Freestanding ATM cars at petrol stations are targeted by many thieves. And don't even think about making cash deposits in an ATM machine that isn't located in a bank. Thieves sometimes buy the Idiot ATM and put them in a public area. These ATMS don't work actually and are strictly used for account information against the person with cash. For more tips on how you can avoid getting scams when using the ATM, check out the full post on the No Handcuffs.Photo by Chris Dlugosz.Ki as to prevent Get Ripped off of the ATM machine | No Menucuffs ATMs are fast and convenient, but they are also costs you money. Let's consider some alternatives hitting the local ATM every day. For one, you could keep a healthy amount of cash on hand. OK, there are reasons why you might not want to keep a lot of cash in your goals or your wallet -- it might get stolen and won't earn any interest in your pocket. But consider the advantages of the gain. If you need cash in an emergency, you'll have it. Carrying money is especially helpful if you're going to come from out of town, where your bank might not have any branches, or if you're attending a festival or sportsmanship event for several hours where the selection of ATM might be limited or charge a hefty fee. Another option in several ATM visits is to simply take more money out of an ATM when you're there. The supplement you pay on an ATM withdrawal is a flat fee, not a percentage of the cash money you withdraw. So the $3.00 fee you pay to take out $20 in cash is still only $3.00 when you take out $100. However, if you take out the $100 to five $20 withdrawals, the total fee will sort at $15! That's 15 percent of your money. not good. Most advertisement accepts both credit and debit cards in lies in cash payments. If you take advantage of this option whenever possible, a little bit of cash in your pocket can go a long way. But be careful to pay the credit card debt before interest starts to indict, or you may end up paying a fee of all familial loans. And while you're using that check or debit card, take advantage of the cash back option. You can get cash together with your purchase for no extra fee and save yourself a trip to the ATM. The starting check looks old fashioned. Many people only use them for payments that can't be done electronically. But some stores still accept checks, so keep a checkbox and you might get out of a preserve when you run out of cash. Of course, the store may require you to carry out money check cards before it will accept your check, but these cards are usually free and many stores allow you to make your first check to buy immediately after completing the application. Even better, the stores can give you cash back if you write the check for an amount bigger than the buyer (but ask first to make sure this is the store policy). Follow these rules and you'll save enough money that, at the end of the year, you can pay yourself a beautiful holiday present. Or you can just leave the money where it already is -- in the bank.
